FIND OUT WHY IT'S KNOWN AS THE TREASURE STATE

EXPERIENCE MONTANA

When describing Montana, adjectives fall like snow on a mountain peak. "Breathtaking," "majestic," "flawless," "gorgeous" and of course, "awesome" immediately come to mind. Some of America's greatest writers have used these superlatives to convey the unique feel that Montana inspires. But words alone cannot do her justice. This much beauty, character and history have to be lived firsthand. For Montana is more than just a state—it's an experience that stimulates the senses and stirs the soul. And it's an experience that should be lived by everyone at least once in their lifetime.

Anyone who has laid eyes on our endless blue sky, crystal-clear waters and mammoth mountains knows that Montana leaves an impression that won't soon be forgotten.

This winter, let Montana charm you and your family with her wondrous sights and thrilling activities. "Big Sky Country" is full of warm people who will take the chill out of winter and welcome you to their charming small towns and exciting cities as you vacation in our amazing Treasure State.

BROADEN YOUR WINTER HORIZONS

WINTER ACTIVITIES

Chances are, you're considering a trip to Montana in anticipation of our legendary outdoor winter adventures—like skiing or seeing the breathtaking Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks. But whatever it is that's tempting you, there are plenty of unique ways to complement your Montana vacation. And though these activities may be less heralded than those that have captured your attention, broadening your horizons might lead to a new favorite pastime.

For example, downhill skiers may want to explore the world of backcountry skiing. Imagine being the first skier to carve a powdery run in one of nature's biggest playgrounds. Montana is a vast place filled with untouched runs. It's also a great state to take up cross-country skiing. See Mother Nature at her best while trekking through some of our thousands of miles of groomed and ungroomed trails. Or imagine getting a bird's-eye view of our wintry beauty on a helicopter tour. You'll even find guided helicopter ski trips. Afraid of heights? Try a snowcoach or snowmobile tour in some of the most challenging and beautiful terrain in the world.

Many anglers only think of Big Sky Country during the warmer months, but the fish are still here in winter. Ice fishing and winter fly fishing can be perfect cold-weather fun. Georgetown Lake, near Anaconda; Flathead Lake, south of Kalispell; and Fort Peck Lake in northeast Montana are just a few of the many great places to drop your line in winter. You might land yourself some dough at the Ice Fishing Tournament at Fort Peck Lake's Marina Bay.

Non-anglers will find plenty of new things to do here as well. For example, many visitors are taking up snowshoeing, a rapidly growing and inexpensive activity. For those who want to try something faster, we offer novices and advanced riders the thrill of commanding a team of sled dogs. Or maybe you'll want to take up skijoring, a blend of sleigh riding and cross-country skiing that involves having a dog or horse pull you.

Want to relax? Feel the pressures of the world evaporate at one of our more than two dozen developed "hot springs" destinations or 30 natural sites, all fed from natural geothermal features. Or, lace up your ice skates—on our ponds, lakes or rinks. Montana has the performing arts covered as well. The beautiful Alberta Bair Theatre in Billings, for example, offers off-Broadway plays, concerts and more.

So pick your favorite winter activity, add some new ones and start planning your Montana vacation now. Visit www.wintermt.com.

UNSPOILED & AUTHENTIC

ACCOMMODATIONS, DINING & URBANE ATTRACTIONS

There's plenty to love about Montana, and not all of it has to do with our great outdoors. In fact, both our charming towns and larger cities offer plenty to do before and after you've played outside.

For starters, we have hundreds of exciting museums and galleries that will fascinate your whole family, including Bozeman's dino-filled Museum of the Rockies and Great Falls' Lewis & Clark Interpretive Center, just to name a couple. We're also chock-full of historic trails and battlefields as well. And for those who feel a vacation isn't a vacation without a little shopping, we have plenty of unique shops, specialty stores and malls.

You may think that because Montana is such a spectacular, uncrowded and unspoiled place, you'll sacrifice modern comforts. Nothing could be further from the truth. Most visitors are surprised by Montana's vibrant nightlife. For example, you'll have no problem finding delicious restaurants to satisfy the most finicky of appetites as well as first-rate hotels and quaint bed & breakfasts.

When you consider all there is to do here, both inside and outside, you'll realize that Montana is more than just a beautiful state. We're the perfect winter vacation destination for everyone.

PUTTING THE WILD IN WINTER

WILDLIFE VIEWING

There's something special about seeing wildlife in its natural habitat. And fortunately, not all of our animals spend the winter hibernating. The wilds of Montana, with their amazingly diverse landscapes, offer unique opportunities to see a wonderfully varied group of animals and birds. In fact, we have a greater variety of wildlife than any other state in the lower 48. Spot a herd of Rocky Mountain elk or deer foraging in a mountain meadow at sunset in Glacier National Park. Watch buffalo cross an icy stream in Yellowstone National Park, surrounded by the misty steam from the nearby hot springs.

But these critters are for your eyes only. Never try to touch, chase or disturb them. And don't take photos of them with Junior sitting on their backs. (Yes, people have tried.) These are wild animals. Disrupting the natural order can be disastrous for them and dangerous for you.

Respect wildlife by not leaving behind empty soda cans and bags. If you see trash left behind by some thoughtless person, please carry it out. Never feed the wildlife. Animals accustomed to human food and contact can become aggressive, and in many cases, have to be destroyed if they can't be relocated. Simply put, a fed animal can be a dead animal.

Think of Montana as an enormous natural animal preserve, waiting for you to experience, share stories with family and fill photo albums for years to come. For more information, go to www.wintermt.com/conservation.

SUSTAINING MONTANA'S RESOURCES

The Montana Department of Natural Resources and Conservation (DNRC) administers Montana's state school trust lands, including state forests. The agency is responsible for the stewardship, sustainability and improvement of the resources and benefits derived from these lands for current and future generations.

Persons who possess a Montana Wildlife Conservation License may hunt, fish and trap on legally accessible state lands; however, trappers must also acquire a Special Recreational Use License from DNRC prior to trapping on state lands. For most all other types of non-commercial and non-concentrated recreational activities, persons 12 and older must possess a State Land General Recreational Use License, which is available from Fish, Wildlife & Parks (FWP) license agents. Use of motorized vehicles, including use of snowmobiles on leased or licensed land, is restricted to public roads (subject to traffic laws/regulations) and on other roads that DNRC may designate open. On unleased or unlicensed land, snowmobile use is allowed in all areas unless prohibited by DNRC. Pamphlets that provide further information regarding the rules, regulations and restrictions governing these and other activities on state lands are available from FWP offices, license agents and DNRC offices.

SNOWPLOW SAFETY

Motorists can help ensure a safer winter driving experience if they are prepared, alert and cautious. Our snowplows are on the road for your safety. There are some things you can remember when you encounter a snowplow:

- Plows travel slowly, usually 25-30 miles per hour, so if you are behind one, you may be tempted to pass. Before you do, keep in mind the snowplow driver may have a difficult time seeing you, especially if they are clearing the road in front of them.
- Never pass a plow on the right. Some snowplows are equipped with a "wing plow," an eight-foot extension off the right side of the truck that can be difficult to see.
- Plows aren't just removing snow. They also spread sand or deicer on the road. Leave enough room between the plow and your vehicle to avoid being sprayed.

PASSPORT REQUIREMENT

A passport is required for all persons traveling between the US, Canada and Mexico via air. Passports may be required by land or sea travel. Visit www.customs.gov for updated requirements.

POWDER COVERED ADRENALINE

DOWNHILL SKIING & SNOWBOARDING

The name “Montana” comes from the Spanish word meaning “mountain.” Once you see the landscape of Montana—featuring rugged Rocky Mountain peaks reaching elevations of more than 12,000 feet—you’ll appreciate how appropriate our name is. The good news for skiers and boarders is this: Nestled among our stunning mountain ranges are winter resorts offering some of the finest powder in North America.

Yes, many resorts brag about their powder. But Montana’s claims for better snow aren’t just filled with hot air, because the state’s unique geography creates a veritable laboratory for perfect powder. How? When winter storms brew over the giant Pacific Ocean and head inland, they have relatively smooth sailing as they move east—until they hit the Rocky Mountains of Montana. When those clouds, loaded with moisture, bump up against peaks reaching 9,000 feet or more, they begin to drop that precipitation. That’s when the second key ingredient comes into play: low humidity.

Montana’s snow is light and dry, rather than the wet sludge or concrete more humid areas get.

The result? Well, let’s just say more than a few of Montana’s 15 downhill resorts seem to have permanent positions on numerous lists of best resorts within the ski and snowboarding industries.

Also, Montana has resorts at the top of the charts for vertical drop, skiable terrain, affordable pricing and lack of lift lines. The best places to be are the places where everyone else isn’t.

And as if Montana didn’t have enough, two resorts have combined to offer the most skiable terrain in North America accessible with one ticket: more than 5,500 acres, 4,350 vertical feet and 220 trails via 27 lifts. So yes, that means bigger is better.

But then, in the mountains of Montana, everything is better.

All winter, people cast their eyes to the top of Bozeman's Baxter Hotel where a flashing blue beacon instantly signifies news of fresh powder at Bridger Bowl. Some businesses even let their employees take a powder day if the snow gets deep enough.

It's all part of the attraction of winter in Bozeman. Whether you're a resident or visitor, outdoor recreation opportunities are endless. We're surrounded by four mountain ranges, thousands of acres of Gallatin National Forest and the frozen waterfalls and geysers of Yellowstone National Park. Cross-country ski trails, some in the middle of town, sprout in every direction. And the downhill ski crowd has the run of three world-class destination resorts, all within an hour's drive, including community-owned Bridger Bowl.

Located 16 miles north of Bozeman, Bridger is renowned for powder so dry and wispy, locals dub it "the cold smoke." A snowsports school and accessible terrain cater to families, intermediate skiers and those seeking a first-time experience. The Ridge, nearly two miles of steep couloirs and gladed snowfields, is accessed only by experts who make the 400-foot hike above the lift to the 8,700-foot summit. But a Bridger day goes well beyond the powder. The civic pride and small-town charm of Bozeman are equally responsible for drawing locals and visitors alike.

After a great day of skiing and soaking in the vistas, soothe aching quads with a walk down historic Main Street. More than 100 shops and restaurants line our beautiful and historic shopping corridor. Locals and skiers alike flock to art galleries, funky boutiques and a wealth of dining options within this vibrant core. Tasty flavors range from four-star elegance to tapas to an inexpensive wrap. And meat and potatoes? You'll find them too. After all, this is Bozeman, Montana.

Want some history with your powder? Discovery Ski Area is located on Montana Highway 1, Montana's first historic highway. And it's not called the Pintler Scenic Highway for nothing; it takes you through some of the most beautiful valleys and historic mining districts Big Sky Country has to offer.

The Granite County seat is in Philipsburg (pop. 954), just minutes north of Discovery. "P-burg," as the locals call it, was an 1890s boomtown. Today it's called the "liveliest ghost town" in the West thanks to a bustling National Historic District that's full of venerable old buildings from hard rock mining's heyday. The beautifully restored downtown recently earned the Building from the Best of the Northern Rockies award from the Sonoran Institute.

This is truly old Montana, lovingly restored by the townsfolk themselves. These friendly locals will make you feel right at home, but this is not a place to worry about your "après-ski" apparel or what you are driving. Your lift ticket is good for a free drink at several watering holes, and folks here know how to treat visitors—when Montana created an award for the best tourism community in the state, little Philipsburg was the premier winner! Sunny, wide streets, a great museum, old saloons, good restaurants and lodging ranging from economical motels, cozy B&Bs and a beautifully restored historic hotel can all be found in Philipsburg. The new regulation-size hockey rink is available all day and lighted at night. And the shopping is fun too, including the West's largest candy store and a wide variety of antiques and specialty shops. But the main thing you'll experience is the laid-back comfort of an unhurried community in the heart of the Rockies.

The legacy of silver mining extends to the very base of the ski hill where picturesque Georgetown Lake lies nestled at the foot of the majestic, snowcapped Anaconda Pintler Wilderness. The lake was created over a century ago to provide electricity to a nearby mine, one of the first electrical facilities in America. Today Georgetown is a winter wonderland for all types of fun activities. The ice fishing is the best in the state, the hottest new sport is kite skiing and the backcountry trails are heaven for snowshoeing and snowmobiling alike. Plus the lake is surrounded by several restaurants, motels, lodges and cabins where you can unwind.

Powder Magazine said it best when they recently wrote of Discovery: "It would be hard to imagine a more satisfying ski hill." The same can be said for what you'll find on historic Highway 1 and the charming town of Philipsburg and nearby Georgetown Lake!

Folks who live here have known it for a long time. But a national travel magazine recently picked Whitefish as one of the 10 Coolest Small Towns in America. In the October 2009 issue of Arthur Frommer's Budget Travel Magazine, Whitefish was featured as one of the top, up-and-coming, affordable travel destinations nationwide.

Three markers drove the editors to their picks: you have to be able to get a good cup of coffee and excellent food; when people leave for the big city, they realize they've made a mistake and come back home; and lastly, you'll see more art galleries than country stores.

"Every now and then you stumble upon a town that's gotten everything right—great coffee, food with character, shop owners with purpose," begins the feature article, which goes on to highlight ten "Main Street, U.S.A." places with enough character to sustain even the biggest city dwellers. "Whitefish rose to the top for its mix of folksiness and style," said Budget Travel, Editor in Chief Nina Willdorf. "Residents definitely have a strong sense of pride in what they do, and they're just as passionate about the rugged natural surroundings as the food and theatre scene."

Every winter, the hearty people of Whitefish band together to welcome visitors with celebrations like the Whitefish Winter Carnival, complete with a home-town parade, penguin plunge, yetis, vikings, snow sculptures, and non-stop parties. Horses and skiers unite in skijoring races that illustrate the crossover of the Old West with modern-day adventures.

Known for award-winning cuisine and wine selections, Whitefish has more than 40 restaurants, from steak to sushi, both old classics and modern fare. After dinner, enjoy a band at one of the many hot spots or try the Cultural Arts Center for theater, dance, or a concert. In the morning, stretch with a yoga class, grab a massage, or even take a swim at the Aquatic and Fitness Center.

Walk the covered sidewalks on Central Avenue for a hearty breakfast made from local products, then catch the SNOW Bus to Whitefish Mountain Resort. 3,000 acres of skiing are framed by the craggy peaks of the Continental Divide that define Glacier National Park—just 25 miles from town—and crown this magnificent area. The ski mountain is the perfect backdrop to a town that celebrates mountain life, adventure, and friends.

Enjoy the feel of the wind as you whisk through the woods on a dog sled. Wander the miles of cross-country ski and snowshoe trails that wind through the forests and rolling hills near town. Take a skate with your family at the Ice Pavilion. Or jump on 15 kilometers of groomed trails with five kilometers lit at night right in the heart of Whitefish.

Getting here is easy. Glacier Park International Airport is just 11 miles from town, or hop on Amtrak's Empire Builder, with twice-daily arrivals to the historic Whitefish Train Depot. Come see for yourself what makes a cool town cool.

MONTANA'S SMALL GEMS

When it comes to enjoying "skiing like it used to be," Montana has three ski areas where less is truly more! A little off the beaten path, these small areas offer big value. You and your family will experience nonexistent lift lines, powder you can ski all day long, cozy lodges where the staff gets to know you by name and lift tickets priced like you've stepped back in time.

All are short drives from some of Montana's most historic communities, which reflect our small-town Western heritage. Affordable accommodations, outstanding hospitality and skiing that will take you back to the good old days await you at these three small Montana gems.

CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING

Nordic skiing has its roots in Europe's Scandinavian countries, which are filled with wide-open spaces, majestic vistas and plentiful geysers.

Montana also is filled with wide-open spaces, majestic vistas and, in the Yellowstone National Park region, plentiful geysers. Hmm. Montana might be a cross-country skiing destination our Scandinavian friends would enjoy.

If you're considering a trip to Montana, the numbers definitely add up, starting with two national parks: Glacier and Yellowstone.

In Montana's northwest corner, Glacier National Park has more than a million acres of beauty, accessed by a dozen Nordic ski trails. Don't want to explore on your own? Ask about guided tours and ski rentals in surrounding towns. To get more information, contact: Glacier National Park, PO Box 128, West Glacier, MT 59936, or call 406-888-7800. www.nps.gov/glac

The Yellowstone landscape, like Scandinavia, is home to numerous geysers and geothermal features. In fact, more than half of the world's geysers are in Yellowstone National Park. When you ski Yellowstone, you'll be surrounded by the white plumes of geysers and wildlife.

Montana has two winter entrances into Yellowstone at Gardiner and West Yellowstone, with exceptional skiing opportunities around Cooke City, Gardiner, West Yellowstone and Mammoth Hot Springs. (While here, try snowcoach tours and snowmobile rentals; more on those in the following pages.) Contact: Park Information,

Box 168, Yellowstone National Park, WY 82190, or call 307-344-7381. www.nps.gov/yell

And though you could live on national parks alone, Montana piles it on with nine national forests and several wilderness areas open to Nordic skiing and snowshoeing. We're also home to premier cross-country resorts, where you can be pampered after a day of skiing. You'll find more than a dozen Nordic resorts offering hundreds of groomed trails.

A trip to Montana is one that takes you to the essence, and the roots, of the Nordic skiing experience.

MONTANA'S NATIONAL FORESTS

Montana has 16.8 million acres of publicly accessible national forests and grasslands. To put that number in perspective, it's roughly the total land area of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts combined. So you have plenty of room to roam, ranging from the rugged mountaintops and steep, timbered canyons of western Montana to the badlands and prairies of eastern Montana.

Fifteen downhill ski areas on national forest lands provide slopes for every talent. These winter sports areas have been developed in cooperation with private industry and are operated under national forest special-use permits.

In addition to spectacular downhill runs, there are vast and diverse landscapes for cross-country skiers and snowmobilers. Skiers can follow more than 400 miles (644 km) of designated ski-touring trails of varying difficulty across timbered slopes, open meadows and ridgelines. See the chart on the facing page for more information. There are also thousands of miles of ungroomed recreation territory.

Snowmobilers can ride more than 2,500 miles of designated trails, or they can explore on their own. In some areas, wildlife winter ranges are closed to snowmobiling.

A Guide to Your Northern Region National Forests will give you the locations of all the national forests in Montana. This guide and maps of the individual national forests and winter recreation trails are available from the U.S.D.A. Forest Service, Northern Region, or the individual national forest (see contact information on right).

If you're looking for a true backcountry experience, the Forest Service has rustic cabins and lookouts for rent on a first-come, first-served basis. Cabins are furnished with the bare basics (table, chairs, wood stove and bunks). Bedding is not furnished. Forest Service personnel at the national forest in which the cabin is located can tell you what you need to bring. For a Recreational Cabin and Lookout Directory, contact the individual national forest (see contact information on right) or go to www.recreation.gov.

DINING

Chico has long been known for its landmark restaurant, The Dining Room at Chico. Creative continental cuisine is served in a comfortable atmosphere of casual elegance. The seafood is fresh, the steaks are large and the wine list is extensive. For more casual fare, fry the Poolside Grille; serving salads, large sandwiches, burgers and excellent ribs and pizza. The Saloon offers food from the Poolside Grille menu and is known for its large selection of beer and "Paradise Margaritas."

CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING

Chico offers you an ideal home base regardless of your skiing level or desires. Pack your skis and head out to nearby Mill Creek Canyon on fresh untracked trails or drive to neighboring Yellowstone Park where wildlife and amazing natural wonders await you. There's nothing in the world like skiing past grazing elk in sheer silence or watching a geyser go off with winter as a backdrop. It's all part of the Chico experience. The real Chico experience, however, is putting your skis away or saying goodbye to your musher and stepping into the natural hot springs under the stars of a crisp Montana night!

RESERVATIONS

We have become a popular spot, which makes reservations for lodging a must. Weekends fill quickly so reservations are highly suggested to secure your choice of dates and accommodations.

SNOWMOBILE ADDICTION

WINTER MACHINES

You know who you are. One of those people who, when you see a field of untouched powder, gets an uncontrollable itch in your right hand. You want to open up that throttle and blaze a trail across that field. You want to leave your mark on that powdery canvas to let everyone know you were here first.

Admit it: you're a hopelessly addicted sledhead.

That's okay. Here in Montana, we can help. Our treatment program for snowmobiling addiction is one of the largest in North America—some 4,000 miles worth of groomed trails in all. And that's just the groomed trails; Montana is criss-crossed with backcountry trails and Forest Service roads. Ghost towns, wildlife, 10,000-foot peaks... they're all here.

We want you to stay safe, so follow this 12-step program for your favorite addiction (okay, so it's only six steps):

1. All snowmobiles used for recreation on public lands must be registered and display a current decal—including all out-of-state machines. Out-of-state registration decals are $25 and valid for the entire winter.

2. If you ride on plowed streets open to snowmobile traffic, you must have a driver's license. The only exception is a person under 18, who must have a safety certificate and travel with an adult.
3. Know the local laws and regulations where you are riding. Contact the Montana Snowmobile Association at www.m-s-a.org to find out more.
4. Motorized vehicles—including your snowmobile—are not allowed in a federally designated wilderness area. Make sure you know your location at all times.
5. For nonresident permits and safety certificate requirements, contact Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks at 406-444-7317 or www.fwp.mt.gov/parks/recreation.
6. For more information about snowmobiling in Montana, contact the Montana Snowmobile Association, PO Box 56, Black Eagle, MT 59414 or www.m-s-a.org.

WIND CHILL AND HYPOTHERMIA

The "Wind Chill" Index is a calculation of how cold it feels outside when the effects of temperature and wind speed are combined. Exposure to cold, biting air for long periods of time is dangerous.

Hypothermia is a condition brought on when the body temperature drops to less than 55°F. Symptoms include uncontrollable shivering, slow speech, memory lapses, frequent stumbling, drowsiness and exhaustion.

If hypothermia is suspected, begin warming the person slowly and seek immediate medical assistance. Warm the person's trunk first. Use your own body heat to help. Arms and legs should be warmed last. Put the person in dry clothing and wrap their entire body in a blanket.

Never give a hypothermia victim caffeine or alcohol. Both can hasten the ill effects of cold body temperatures.

ALL ABOARD FOR WINTER SNOWCOACH TREKS

No, snowcoaches aren't the guys and gals who helm the local ski team. They're the newest, warmest and most comfortable way to introduce your family to the wonders of winter in Montana.

Heated snowcoaches keep you warm and protected inside, no matter what the weather conditions are outside. Snowcoaches offer spectacular opportunities to see wildlife, take in scenic vistas and snap photographs. Why? Thanks to their unique design, you stay high above ground level, getting a bird's-eye view of your surroundings. But the comfort doesn't stop there. Snowcoaches are as quiet as your own car, easy on the environment and easy on your schedule: The pace is relaxed and unhurried, giving you plenty of time to explore and spend time with your family.

After all, it's a lot of fun to ski, board, sled or snowshoe in Montana's plentiful powder. But sometimes, it's just as much fun to sit back and let the dazzling sights come to you.

Snowcoaches are an ideal way to relax after a few hard days of outdoor play. Or, pair a snowcoach tour with your other outdoor pursuits: Take a snowcoach to Old Faithful, for instance, and enjoy the Nordic skiing surrounding the world's most famous geyser. Even if you never want to set foot outside in the snow (crazy, but possible), snowcoaches are ideal for every member of your family—even the littlest ones.

Winter in Yellowstone is like no other season—a landscape softened and transformed by snow, a “Winter Wonderland.” Imagine gliding on cross-country skis or snowshoeing beside frozen rivers and steaming geothermal features. Wildlife seems to be everywhere, with wolves hunting and playing, as winter is the season of the wolf. Bison dusted with snow stand majestically against the drama of a winter storm. The solitude will make you feel as if you are alone in this magical place.

Safari Yellowstone's winter safaris are second to none. From our ever popular and #1-rated Wolf and Wildlife Safaris to exploring Yellowstone's heartland in one of our custom, heated snowcoaches, we offer guests the widest variety of winter activities. Ski or snowshoe with one of our naturalist guides into a landscape filled with majestic wildlife, frozen waterfalls, spectacular scenery and hidden steaming thermal areas.

Departing from Mammoth Hot Springs, our Snowcoach Safaris offer daily adventures to Old Faithful or the beautiful Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone and the Upper and Lower Falls. Whether a single or multiday safari or a private chartered snowcoach adventure, we would love to share winter in Yellowstone with you. Call us and schedule your “Greater Yellowstone Experience.”
